FOREWORD

There is a constant demand for an official directory of newspapers and the present volume has been compiled to supply that demand. The function of the newspaper in the community continues to be of primary importance; the printed word remains the most popular and the most authentic medium of disseminating information. As radio has come to fill its place in the field of communications, a supplement listing facts about the radio stations of Montana has been added to this directory

Montana newspaper publishers and editors, throughout good times and bad, have kept faith with their readers, and kept pace with the times. They continually strive to serve the public with authentic facts about the little and big affairs of life. Through the Montana State Press association, they also strive to better their output and their own economic position.

The writer wishes to thank the editors, publishers and radio station managers who have cooperated in making this directory authentic and complete.

JOHN W. NELSON,
State Director of Publicity.

MONTANA PRESS ASSOCIATION

By Henry O. Woare, Secretary.

The Montana State Press Association was launched at a preliminary meeting held at Helena on February 10, 1885. W. W. Alderson, publisher of the Avant Courier at Bozeman was temporary chairman and Jerry Collins of the Fort Benton River Press and founder of the Great Falls Tribune was the temporary secretary. A committee of five was appointed to draw up the constitution and by-laws. Fourteen newspapers were represented at this meeting.

The permanent organization was formed at Butte on August 20, 1885. James H. Mills, editor of the Montana Post at Virginia City was elected president; W. W. Alderson, first vice-president; W. H. Sutherlin, Rocky Mountain Husbandman, Great Falls, second vice-president; Lee Mantle, third vice-president; Alex Devine, secretary; A. J. Fisk, treasurer, Record-Herald, Helena.

Other officers and charter members who assisted in the making of Montana history are J. E. Hendry, Livingston Enterprise; C. S. Fell and J. M. Vrooman, Mineral Argus, Judith Basin country; the five Fisk Brothers of the Helena Record-Herald; J. D. Matheson, Billings Gazette; Hugh McQuaid, Helena Independent; Harrison Spaulding, Missoula County Times, Missoula; J. R. Widmyer, Glendive Independent; F. E. Foote, Dillon Tribune; Alex Devine, Billings Herald.

The association held its Golden Jubilee at Great Falls in 1935. For 52 years the organization has met and conducted its business and the words of the temporary secretary, Jerry Collins, are still remembered: "The trite maxim that 'in union there is strength' applies as forcibly to us as to other laborers in the grand vineyard, for there are many things we may be able to accomplish when united, in which without organzation, we would signally fail. Let us seek, then, to make the association the power for good and mutual benefit that is its natural function. As our business expands and the number of newspapers increases—and in this regard we have certainly kept pace with the march of progress in the territory the past two or three years—the benefits to accrue from this association will be greater and our successors in the sanctum and counting room will have cause to thank us for the work we have inaugurated."

The present officers are: Harry J. Kelly, president, Flathead Monitor, Kalispell; J. F. M. Travis, first vice-president, Havre Daily News; Dan Whetstone, second vice-president, Pioneer Press, Cut Bank; Harry E. Lay, third vice-president, Democrat-News, Lewistown; Henry O. Woare, secretary-treasurer, Helena.

DISTRICT ORGANIZATION

Southeastern Montana Unit

Sponsored by Joseph D. Scanlon of Miles City, a movement has been launched by the Montana Press Association members to organize into district groups, to meet problems common to publishers in the area joined by geographical ties. First of these groups to organize was the Southeastern Unit, which met at the Kempton ranch, Terry, last November. Unit officers are W. B. Vennard, president; Karl Pleissner, Baker, first vice-president; C. R. Hurley, Sidney, second vice-president; G. G. Hoole, Glendive, Secretary; Donald McCausland, Forsyth, treasurer. The officers compose the board of directors.

Purpose of the group organization, President Vennard says, is: "To aid in the promotion of the printing industry in southeastern Montana; to give concerted publicity to all southeastern Montana projects, specializing in highway and irrigation matters; to cooperate fully with the state association; to hold regular meetings twice yearly for discussion of problems; to cooperate fully with all existing organizations for the betterment of southeastern Montana.

Mid-Montana Unit

Second group to organize was the Central Montana Press association, at a meeting at Lewistown, March 5th. Officers of the unit, elected at the meeting were: President, H. Stanley Thurston of the Judith Basin Press at Stanford; vice-president, A. W. Eiselein of the Roundup Record-Tribune; secretary, R. B. Vrooman of the Grass Range Review.

PRESIDENT HARRY J. KELLY

(Biographical)

Honored by members of the Montana State Press association at their meeting at Glacier National Park last summer, was Harry J. Kelly of Kalispell, publisher of the Flathead Monitor. Veteran in years and in point of service, Editor Kelly was elected president of the association, unanimously.

A native of Wisconsin, President Kelly is 68 years of age. He attended Creighton University, Omaha, shortly after it was founded. He served an apprenticeship as a printer in Omaha. He arrived in Missoula in 1888 and has been continuously a resident of Montana since that date. He worked on the Butte Miner and helped put out the first edition of the Anaconda Standard. In 1895 he published a paper in Hamilton. He was assistant sergeant at arms in the senate during the memorable Daly-Clark fight in the sixth legislative session.

Later he moved to Lewistown and with Tom Stout, launched what is now the Lewistown Democrat News. He served as U. S. registrar of lands at Lewistown from 1913 to 1920. He moved to Kalispell and in 1924 took over active management of the Flathead Monitor, which he still edits and publishes. His two sons and two daughters long have been active in political and civic affairs of the state.
